CITYHOUSING BODY READY FOR ACTION

FINAL DETAILS WILL BE FINISHED NEXT WEEK—
CUNNINGHAM.

RACINE ST. LAND PLAT COMPLETED

Plans Call For Community Gardens, Parks and Beautiful Drives.

That actual construction of the first lot of houses to be built by the Janesville Housing Corporation will begin during the week of May 5, was the prediction made today by Manager H. J. Cunningham.

The surveying and staking of the Racine and Fremont street properties into lots will be completed next week so that building operations may commence at a weekly later.

WILL Work.

"We have been rather careful all along and consequently we may have been a little slow," said Mr. Cunningham today. "Now that we have all the details of the preliminary work cleaned up, we are going to crowd the work and rush the houses to completion."

The final plat of the acreage in the third ward was approved by the board of directors last night. It was prepared under the direction of F. A. Cushing, Smith, landscape artist, and assistant to Dr. John Nolen, city planner, who has been engaged by the Chamber of Commerce to plan Janesville.

More than 150 lots are available on the four tracts purchased by the corporation in that district: the Dettmar, Carlson, Trenwith, and Drew properties.

Community gardens planned.

The land has been artistically platted and should make an ideal residence location. Clark street is to be extended through the property so that it will not be necessary to build houses to face on the 65-foot alley which bounds the property on the south.

Space has been allotted for parks and recreational spots. Community gardens will also be a feature of the plat.

The work of the corporation will not be limited to this district. Lots have been purchased in all parts of the city. Houses will be built where ever they may be desired.

Never before perhaps did a society have to consider so忽然 a violent change of venue as in the case of Dr. Blake and Mrs. Mackay.

Clarence H. Mackay and Mrs. Joseph A. Blake, who was formerly Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay.

New York, April 25.—(Special)—

The news that Dr. Joseph A. Blake, eminent surgeon formerly of this city and his wife, who was Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, are to return to this country to live, has given society some very interesting problems to work out.

usual moral and social problems often confront New York's social class and they are usually treated very liberally, but it is not certain what the solution of this newest one will be.

Never before perhaps did a society

have to consider so忽然 a violent

LUBY'S

MERCHANDISE LOOT IN HANOVER ROBBERY

Merchandise to the value of $100 is missing from the general store of Pfistner Bros. at Hanover after a robbery during the early hours of the morning and in the job Sheriff Fred Boley sees a connection with the theft of an automobile at Afton after midnight. Only a meager clew was left by the thieves but in it Sheriff Boley is hoping for results.

Overalls, socks, women's hose, neckties, jack knives and curving knives, cheap jewelry and other such articles were looted. The thieves entered through the basement, pushing in both door and casing.

The robbery occurred about two o'clock. August Behling, who resides a hundred feet from the store was awakened from his slumber by a loud pounding on the front door of his residence and after arising and dressing what it was all about was asked if the owners of the store lived above it as the speaker was said to be garroting for his automobile. Behling informed the police that the proprietors lived away from the store.

Sheriff Boley has notified Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois police departments to be on the lookout for the thieves and the automobile.

Edgerton News

Edgerton, April 26.—The Girls' Loyal and the boys' Orphanage literary societies of the high school held a banquet last evening at the high school. The banquet was served by the domestic science classes. Chester Murwin acted as toastmaster. The program was opened with a solo by Miss Estelle Wilson and was followed by an address of welcome by Dr. Slager, president of the Orphanage society. The address of welcome was followed by a toast to the boys by Miss Pauline Dickenson. Next was a vocal solo by Miss Edna Hanson. Russell Schoenfeld was then called upon and he gave a toast to the girls, and was followed by Miss Cecil Marley who toasted the boys. The program closed with community singing led by Edward Leary. The balance of the evening was spent in dancing and social time.

The council of defense has issued a circular letter to the citizens of Edgerton asking them to purchase victory liberty bonds at the banks and not wait to be solicited. If the people of Edgerton will respond to this letter, it will greatly lessen the load of his community and will help considerably in putting the load over the top. Bonds may be bought on the installment plan and those wishing to take advantage of this method in buying bonds can do so by application to either bank.

The women of the city federation are making a survey of the city for the purpose of making a city directory. When the survey is completed it will be possible to have accurate information to furnish any one seeking information about the city. Should a factory or any enterprise wish to locate in the city, full information could be given them at once in regard to boarding places, help and other information that they might require. There is no directory of this nature in existence and a complete report should be made by everyone to help with the work.

245 GIVEN JOBS IN MONTH, REPORT SHOWS

Another remarkable record was established by the labor bureau of the Chamber of Commerce for the month ending April 21. The report submitted to the council by manager Fred Schmitt shows that 245 men and women of the 266 referred to positions, were given employment.

The number of applicants registered, 272, was over-balanced by the "Help Wanted" requests, which numbered 315.

"We have been able to place all applicants so far this month," said Mr. Schmitt today, "and most of them are given the work for which they ask. The shortage of carpenters and laborers has made it necessary to ask for help in outside cities."

Voice of the People

To the Editor:

I was greatly pleased to see that "Old Rock County" voted for the very best material to make a permanent road of. Now don't you think the sides of 16 feet wide have worn the sides off of a set of tires this winter running off and on 10 miles of 9 foot road between Duraton and New Syncheyna. There are many good reasons why not make their own cement and walk slushers, salt crackers, hold men and others who are trying to make a dishonest living. Many of the southern states are working their criminals. And the best bosses for them is a man at each end of the line with a Winchester rifle and a pack of bloodhounds.

Yours respectfully,

OBITUARY

Mrs. Jerome T. Boynton.

Mrs. Susan Scott Boynton, wife of Jerome T. Boynton and oldest daughter of Stephen and Margaret Scott, was born in Alabama, Genesee county, New York, and passed away at her home near Avalon, April 20, at the age of 86 years. She came with her parents to Emerald Grove in 1845, where her father settled near the site of the present town of Avalon.

She has been a continuous resident of Rock county since she came to the state and has seen the growth and development of the community from its earliest beginnings. Transportation by mail did not exist when as a child she came to Wisconsin. The family came by the Erie canal and by boat on the Great Lakes to South Port, now Kenosha, the town overland by carriage.

She has been an active member of the Congregational church at Emerald Grove.

She maintained this connection to the last.

February 7, 1883, she became the wife of Jerome T. Boynton, who survives her and they assumed the duties of mother to his six motherless children, who henceforth knew and cherished an aunt as mother. These children all survive her. They are Charles, S. E., Ray and LeRoy, who were born at Avalon; Mrs. C. E. Smith, wife of Dr. C. E. Smith, Beloit; Mrs. F. C. Bowker, wife of Dr. F. C. Bowker, Morris, Ill., and Arthur J. professor in the university of Kansas, Lawrence.

Mrs. Boynton early identified herself with the community life and was always an active member of the Congregational church at Emerald Grove.

POSTOFFICE RULES ON REDEEMING W. S. S.

The following are recent rulings of the postoffice department:

Postmasters are instructed not to register stamps when there is any evidence of an erasure being made.

"Postmasters should not refuse payment of war savings certificates when they are presented on them as the owner, without signs of erasure, or by the name of the selling agent, or by the name of the postmaster who has good evidence that the stamp is presented by a person who is not the rightful owner; and provided, also, that the other regulations regarding redemptions have been complied with."

"Postmasters are instructed to issue duplicate interim receipt if the holder has lost the original. (Interim receipts are given to postmasters in their postoffices to holders where they do not carry funds sufficient to redeem stamp immediately).

The postmaster's special receipt carries the statement that the original interim receipt was lost and that payment was made in full. The receipt is delivered back to the postmaster when payment is made, and is filed as a permanent record of the transaction.

"Whenever a postmaster has made an error in numbering registered stamps and makes a correction payment shall not be refused on account thereof, but the postmaster shall make a notation, attaching it to the certificate of the holder, and that certificate when surrendered with notation by the holder will be redeemed."

"Bob" Conway Home From Service Overseas

Sgt. Major Robert Conway has received his discharge from Camp Grant and arrived in Janesville last evening, surprising his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Conway, La Prairie.

"Bob" left for France the latter part of August, as a member of the 321st machine gun battalion, of the 32nd division, and was later assigned to the 40th division. He arrived in New York April 5th on the C. S. S. Wilhelmina, in charge of a casual company.

Sgt. Major Conway will be remembered as an employee in the First National bank of this city.

THE SACRIFICIAL GOAT.
The sacrifice has been chosen. The altar is ready and the offering to party power has been prepared. The democrats have selected the lamb—perhaps we had better say goat. He is Burleson the mailman. He has been marked with the Indian sign by party leaders who see that someone must answer for the blunders which Wilson's administration has made.

Burleson, as postmaster general and director general of the telegraph and telephone lines is unpopular. The public does not care for his business methods. His party sees a chance to lay some of its failures at his door.
While Wilson is in France battling for his 14 points, his official family is rowing in Washington, with the result that a movement is well started to force Burleson from the cabinet.

The postmaster general has been chosen by party leaders as the man who must be designated as making the party unpopular. The defeats in the congressional elections last fall called attention to the fact that even Wilson's popularity could not swing the entire long. It is said that the men behind the move to oust Burleson are big men of the party and closest Wilson's advisors. They have seen the result of the postmaster general's high-handed methods in handling the postal business and the telegraph and telephones. His arbitrary consolidation and management of the systems, the raising of rates and his clash with organized labor have awakened party leaders to the necessity of calling him off the job.

Now Burleson is blamed for the "acid test" letter which was used in the campaign put on in Wisconsin
when Joe Davies was forced upon us as a candidate by Wilson. Burleson, being chief political adviser at that time, gets the credit for the letter.
However, Burleson supporters declare that Tumulty was the author of the "acid test" letter and that party leaders are making Burleson the sacrificial goat in order to clothe their own mistakes.

The New York World, chief mouthpiece of the administration, is after the postmaster general's political seal. It is authority for the statement that the president himself, at the first cabinet meeting following the congressional election, reproached Burleson for advising him to issue the partisan appeal sent out before election.

The World says the president declared at that cabinet meeting: "I have made the one irreparable blunder of my career. The responsibility rests upon the postmaster general and Mr. Tumulty."

NOT OUR BUSINESS.
That quarrel Italy is having over Eritrea is none of America's business.
Wilson's stand against territorial demands and his refusal to recognize recent treaties is worthy of commu-nization. An American could do nothing else when such a situation arises.
But again we say that Wilson has a greater task than attempting to innicate idealism where it is not wanted. It has been predicted time and time again that every one but President Wilson was keeping his eyes peeled for Number One and that European nations were more concerned with what they could get out of the peace settlement than they were over a league which would assure lasting peace.

Italy's stand has convinced those who held that contention that they had guessed right. Senator Borah, while commanding Wilson for his argument against secret treaties, has this to say about the European situation:
"It all reveals what it means for this country to intermeddle in European affairs. We have been in Europe for four months seeking to adjust European affairs, and in that time we have incurred the ill will of the people of Japan and Italy, the severe criticism of the people of France, and the suspicion of China.
If we have accomplished this much in four months, how much more could we accomplish under the league of nations in ten years?"

"It makes no difference how much we adjust the Japanese difficulty or the Italian difficulty, there will be dis-ension and bitterness on the part of some one. And after we have adjusted the difficulties between China and Japan, then article 10 of the league of nations comes in. Under this article we agree to guarantee the territorial integrity of these newly adjusted states, to furnish a navy and an army, and to keep our men in Europe
if necessary."

A great French statesman declared last December: "The conference will not make peace, and in the spring we shall have war." Unless we conclude the treaty with Germany at once and withdraw from the internal affairs of other continents, the Frenchman's prediction will prove a prophecy."

OPPOSE SALES TAXES.
"Sales taxes by which the retail distributor is obliged to collect a small amount of tax from many thousands of people and return it to the government, are economically wrong and they should be discouraged,"
says the National Retail Dry Goods Association.

Most people can agree with the dry goods men. In the abnormal times of war when the country was faced with the two-fold problem of raising tremendous amounts of money and at the same time conserving materials and labor for war use, merchants and public alike were willing to accept taxes on retail sales if, in the judgment of congress, there was no other way to attain the ends sought.

But now the war is over. We are working back toward normal conditions and the majority of the members of congress realize that such taxes as appear under Title Nine of the revenue law of 1918 are unsound economically and undesirable and troublesome from every standpoint.

The dry goods men have set forth their position in the following words:

"As merchants we do not want to be crippled and hampered and held back in these difficult business times by the necessity of handling these taxes."

"We do not wish to accept taxation of this type, and thus establish a precedent which congress will always remember as a precedent when money must be raised."

"We want to show congress that the merchants are alive, that they are organized, that they will oppose taxation measures which are economically unsound and unwise."

"We want to show that a tax which makes many thousands of retail merchants collectors of government revenue from millions of people, is not a fair and just kind of tax."

If every man and woman in Rock county would sit down with a pencil and paper and figure right down to the cent, the amount of Victory notes they could buy, we would finish the job with a big balance on the right side of the ledger."

Gov. Philip is pleased over the report made by the legislative committee which visited charitable and penal institutions. The governor says that the report gives a wrong impression and that he will send a special message to the legislature.

ators, Victory gardeners and early

Girls' Apprenticeship Provision Discussed

Madison, April 25.—Considerable opposition was manifested Thursday afternoon at the hearing before the senate committee on education and welfare, of the Jennings bill relating to the child labor law. Senator Jennings and Taylor Fife, of the apprenticeship committee, spoke in favor of the repeal of the present law requiring permits for girls under 17 employed in domestic service.

MAC DOWELL CLUB TO GIVE BENEFIT

The Mac Dowell club is actively preparing for a Mac Dowell Benefit concert, to be given May 7, at the Apollo theatre. The proceeds are to go to the Mac Dowell league, the work of which is to uplift and aid the music of the nation.

To aid composers in bringing their music before the public; to assist talented musicians not able to study because of lack of means; to support a traveling universal library; to furnish prize money for American compositions; to assist in contests for young artists; to increase interest in the music of the public schools and community; to help support the Artists' Colony of Peterborough, New Hampshire.

The latter was formerly the home of Edward Mac Dowell, one of the greatest American composers. In this quaint and interesting place in the heart of the pine woods, is where a goodly share of his best compositions were wrought.

It had long been his dream to establish a working place and home for creative artists, whether writer, painter, or sculptor, where they could work undisturbed. Since his death, the untiring efforts of Mrs. Mac Dowell, who was heard here a few years ago, has brought a fulfillment of his wish.

Now, on these hills, in addition to several picture-cottage, are 16 well-built studios, apart from each other and mostly facing the setting sun, an expression of his wish. Mrs. Mac Dowell has deeded over all her property to the Memorial association, retaining only a life interest.

Here at Peterborough, is to be held this year the Biennial of the National Federation of Musical clubs, the latter part of June. The colony of workers is not there at present, as extensive preparations are being made to fit all cottages and studios as quarters for the coming delegates.

STATE ALLOTTED
500 MOTOR TRUCKS

Madison, April 25.—State Highway Engineer, W. H. Hirst, is in receipt of a communication from the United States Department of Agriculture informing him that 500 motor trucks valued at $1,500,000 have been allotted to the Wisconsin Highway commission, for use on federal aid road work.

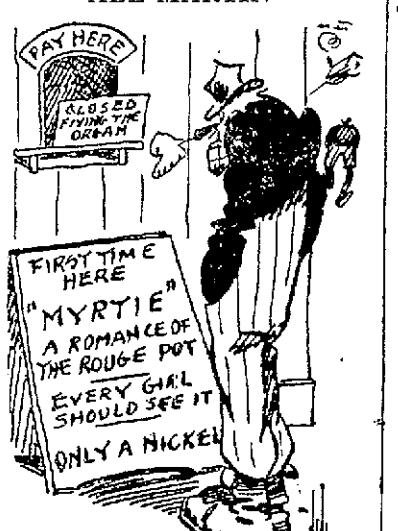

In addition to motor trucks, the state will receive an allotment of steam shovels, graders, contractors' equipment, trailers, cement tractors, ditchers, power plants, horses and mules, harness, explosives, water supply plants, tentage, kitchen equipment, etc.

Some of the material is new and has never been used. Of two ton trucks, there are 5,000 used ones and 1,000 new ones to be distributed; of two ton trucks, quadruple drive, 5,000 new trucks; of three ton trucks 4,000 used and 4,100 new ones; and of five ton trucks, all new, 900. The average cost of these trucks, new, to the government, was from $2,270 to $4,900. Averaging the value at $3,000, it means that $1,500,000 worth of trucks will be received.

Hymn From Unexpected Source.

Hymns have come from very unexpected sources. One of the finest in the language, "The Spacious Firmament on High," found in all collections, was written by a chief secretary for Ireland, Joseph Addison, whose other works would hardly lead one to suppose him fitted for the task.

A CHANCE TO LIVE

BY ZOE BECKLEY

GRIEF IS IN THE WAY.

How could she ever tell her mother? How bear the sight of her mother's face when she learned the baby's carriage—and the stew meat—and the pork for the beans—and the afghan and everything—had been stolen? "Stand out of the doorway little girl, you're in everybody's way," a woman was saying, giving Annie a bit of a shove. "Come, come, get out of the way."

Annie moved mechanically, hunched the baby into safe balance and started off slowly for home, the oil bumping her small thigh, the baby dabbling wet crumbs of ginger snap down her back.

Suddenly a great light shot into her brain. The policeman! The policeman, of course, helped everybody. They helped everything, they answered whatever you asked them! Policemen kept burglars from stealing people's things. Policemen found little lost children. The policeman at the corner was her friend. hadn't he helped Annie and the baby over the fence dozens of times? He would surely help her now. Wasn't it a policeman's business to keep the whole world in order?

Annie got to the corner with her burdens. He was kind, the policeman. He bent down and listened attentively to her story.

"Well, now, that's too bad, sure it is," he said, patting Annie's round hand and the baby's sticky hand. "A baby's big enough to find, I guess. We'll get it back for you, never you worry."

Annie's burdens lightened magically. It was not so hopeless after all. Even if the stew meat, the afghan, were lost, so long as the main tragedy did not fall upon her—

Mrs. Hargan did not scold when she told her. Or whip her, as the mother of Edith Ronier, who lived in the next door tenement, would have done to Edith. She just shut her

THE PIPP IN TURNS

Our notion of the ideal or perfect physical type of woman is a person with a vigorous and erect posture, not stiff or bending back, but you understand, but just the exact vigor and that comes of physical training—and that she is under 30. She should be moderately overweight. She does not too easily overstrain. She does not too easily when she walks. And when she walks or moves she moves with an elasticity which, like the posture, comes only from physical training, daily systematic exercises.

Her complexion is either her very own or such art that is deftly detection. Mostly it is her own. She gets it where she gets her elasticity.

Every woman can be attractive as that. Too many neglect their physical education in early life. But every woman with any elasticity has and perhaps regain a little by a method which I will mention. There is something very intimate in the relation between elasticity and complexion; youth has them both, old age has neither.

Therefore I must warn ladies who may read this not to use the prescription if they are already satisfied with their stock of complexions.

All ladies who are satisfied may now be excused, and will the ladies kindly leave the door open as they pass out.

It still seems as close as ever to here.

Now, then, this is how the pippin turns: She removes her corset, takes a deep breath to unkink her cramped lungs and things, and gets into her pajamas. She now spreads a couple of mattresses or sixteen blankets or a few rugs or a dozen pillows across the floor.

The Daily Novelette

Where Tragedy Stalked.

It was a cold, wintry, winter's evening when Harry G. disguised as a human being entered a somewhat cheap restaurant. Not a soul recognized him as being the tramp who occasionally strolled in for a few bites which he never got.

His face was sad and his demeanor despondent. More than one patron gazed curiously at the lone, lank gent who must have seen better times. Harry continued on in the place with his head dejectedly lowered upon his chest, one eye gazing blearily upon the other, looking at the others to see what effect this sorrowful attitude of one of their number had upon them. When he got to the front of the room, he suddenly raised his head and spoke in saddened, don't-care-if-died-tonight tones:

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said. "All heads were lifted up from plates, at these and voids. Pieces of steak were halved within an inch of mouths; spoons were rolling off knives like anything; spoons were unconsciously taken out of tea-cups; knives were thoughtlessly laid mouth down upon edges. Laughter, while some were so engrossed in the newcomer that they even used their forks for pie—they were so heedless as to what they were doing. It was alarming!

Harry G. continued, "I am a poor financer—an old food-forsaken financer. Misfortune has been too liberal with me. I went into a place today to get something to eat and the man gave me this can of gun-powder and told me to use it and I'd be through with forever. (He sighs.)

"Why don't you do it?" asked the woman.

Fingering the can slowly and reluctantly taking a last look upon this cruel world, Harry said, "I've been without food for three days and I'm so wretched that I guess I'll blow myself up." And he threw the can into the open fire-place.

Wild yell of fright rent the air and the room was cleared out a second later; but after waiting in huddled heaps a block away for the deafening explosion which never came, they gingerly treaded their way back to the restaurant.

What was their great surprise to see every shred of food had disappeared from their half-eaten plates.

Earliest Guide Book.

The earliest guide book printed in English is "Instructions for Forraine Travel," published in 1642 by James Howell, a famous traveler of that day.

The department of commerce issued its first annual digest, 1,411 daily, weekly, monthly, quarterly, annual, and special reports, the printing of which cost $300,000. These publications contained a total of 42,644 printed pages, and there were printed of them a total of 4,804,180 copies.

"Keep cool! It's the only way. Now listen. She has designated her room and the windows that are hers. She is lying awake up there now, take it from me, hoping that you will come tonight. I shall lead you directly to her window. And then comes the only chance we take—the only instance where we gamble. There will not be a light in her window, but that won't make any difference. This nobby cane I'm carrying is in reality a collapsible fishing rod. First we use it to tap gently on her window ledge or shade or whatever we find. Then you pass up a little note to her. Here is paper and pencil. Say that you are below her window and—all ready to take her away. Tell her to lower her valuables, some clothes, etc., from the window by means of the rope we'll pass up on the pole. There is a remote possibility that she may have the jewels in her room. For certain reasons they may have permitted her to retain them. If such is the case our work is easy. If they have taken them away from her she'll say so, some way or another—and she will not leave! Now I've had a good look at the front of that house. It is covered with a lattice work and huge vines. I can shin up like a squirrel and go through her room to the—"

"Are you crazy, Sprouse? You'd take your life in your hands and—"

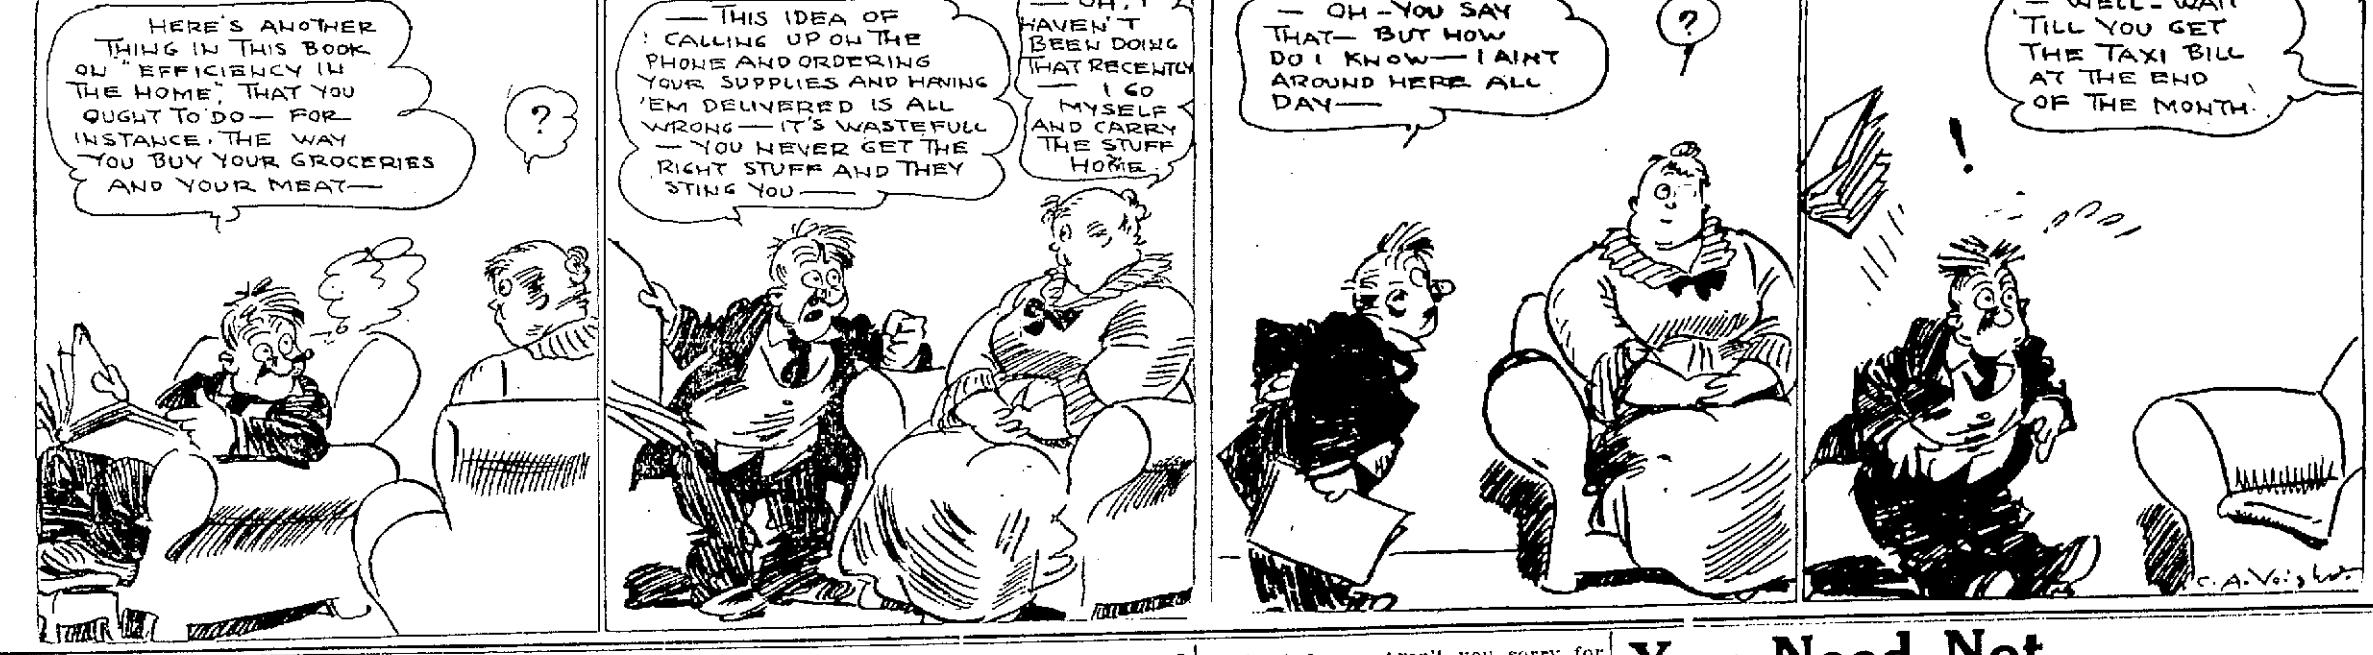

"See here," said Sprouse shortly, "I am not risking my life for the fun of the thing. I am risking it for her, bear that in mind—for her and her people. And if I am killed they won't even say 'Well done, good and faithful servant.' So let's not argue the point. Are you going to stand by or—back out?"

Barnes was shamed. "I'll stand by you," he said, and they stole forward.

"There were no lights visible. The house was even darker than the night itself; it was vaguely outlined by a deeper shade of black.

At last they were within a few yards of the entrance and at the edge of a small space that had been cleared of shrubbery. Here Sprouse stopped and began to adjust the sections of his fishing rod.

"Write," he whispered. "There is a faint glow of light up there to the right. The third window, did you say? Well, that's about where I should locate it."

The tiny metallic tip of the rod, held in the upstretched hand of Barnes, just the taller of the two men, barely reached the window ledge. He tapped gently, persistently on the hard surface. Just as they were beginning to think that she was asleep and that their efforts were in vain, the straining eyes made out a shadowy object, projecting slightly beyond the ledge.

We will follow Sprouse. When he crawled through the window and stood erect inside the room, he found himself confronted by a tall, shadowy figure, standing half-way between him and the door.

He advanced a step or two and uttered a soft hiss of warning.

"Not a sound," he whispered, drawing still nearer. "I have come four thousand miles to help you, countless."

This is not the time or place to explain. We haven't a moment to waste.

U.S. OFFICER CLINGS TO STORY SOUNDING "LIKE A FAIRY TALE"

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Paris, April 25.—"This story may read like a fairy tale, but upon my oath it is true," was a statement made by Captain E. G. Chamberlain of San Antonio, Texas, testifying in his own defense today at the American naval court martial in connection with his reported exploit on the British front during the fighting last summer.

Captain Chamberlain related with an abundance of detail the story of the great battle in which the British squadron in which he says he was flying took part. Returning after a flying expedition over Flanders where he was positive he brought down two German airplanes, he found and two other enemy machines of which he was uncertain, he said, he became separated from the squadron because of engine trouble and came down between the lines where he captured one German soldier and succeeded in bringing in a wounded French officer.

He made his report of the fight at the request of the British officer commanding the squadron, he said, "to cover him up." He said the officer sent him for the report as he was liable to court martial for permitting the American aviator to fly in a British machine.

Captain Chamberlain gave a vivid description of the battle and how he captured the German with a compass torn from his broken airplane. He demonstrated this movement in detail and threatening an invisible enemy. He had no idea at the time that the compass resembled a hand made but merely desired to throw the first thing he could see. Chamberlain told his story calmly and it appeared to make a deep impression.

GERMANY QUIETING DOWN AFTER SERIES OF LABOR TROUBLES

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Berlin, April 25.—Almost as suddenly as the recent strikes began here, there and everywhere, Germany appears to be quieting down again. The coal miners in the Ruhr district are returning to work in increasing numbers and yesterday there in the Duisburg and Dusseldorf districts as well as a dozen other places returned to work.

The fact that the men are resuming work is remarkable because the communists at their more recent meetings have urged a continuation of the strike.

A big factor in the situation has been the distribution of American food, which has proved a special attraction to laboring men. An increase in coal production is already noticeable similarly in upper Saxony where the situation has been improved.

The situation in Brunswick has quieted down and the authorities have modified the regulations incident to martial law. Nearly normal conditions prevail there and industries are working again for the first time in a fortnight. During the general strike 32,000 workers were idle there and have earned wages totaling 5,000,000 marks. Hamburg is almost the only city with the exception of Munich where matters have not quieted down at least for the moment. Military forces are still in charge at Hamburg, while the police succeeded yesterday in bringing about order after communists had vainly stormed the police station. The communists have been guilty of a number of cruelties at Hamburg, it is charged, as a result of which innocent people have lost their lives.

"NO BEER, NO WORK" THREAT IS JOKE SAYS BURKE BILL FIGHTER

BY FRED L. HOLMES

Madison, April 25.—Engineered by former State Senator Frank Johnson Mauston, who made the principal argument in favor of the amendment, a fight for 2.75 percent beer was opened before the senate committee on state affairs, Thursday afternoon. No action was taken by the committee, but it is understood that the bill will be reported early next week. Whether it will contain the "beer" amendment will not be known until the assembly committee has taken formal action.

"The threat that the workers will strike if not given beer is a joke," said J. B. Campbell, Superior, who cannot understand why people are here asking for three percent beer, or any percent beer, is better for the worker if it is not done away with."

The argument in favor of the state affairs prohibition bill was opened by Attorney B. N. Hicks, Milwaukee, who declared that Wisconsin should pass a strong centralized enforcement measure. He was followed by E. L. McIntyre, Milwaukee, who read long extracts from letters from many sections of the country favoring a bill with a state prohibition commissioner to enforce the prohibition regime.

"Greater progress is made in a dry city," said Assemblyman Hugo Hanisch, Price county. "Since my home city has gone dry many men who were formerly spending money for liquor are now spending it for homes."

"I think the legislature should carry out the plain mandate of the eighteenth amendment for a dry nation," said Walter Bender, former deputy attorney general and representative of the Milwaukee Federation of Churches. "One of the best features of this bill is the incorporation of the nuisance laws. That will keep the saloons closed."

Others to speak in favor of the bill were John S. Parker, Evansville, R. A. Ashworth, Milwaukee; Federation of Churches; J. T. Roberts, Randolph; and John Strange, Neenah.

Strongly declared that beer was the greatest evil and read long extracts from letters condemning beer in unmeasured terms, including a letter from Dr. Minihin, Green Bay. He charged that the Belgian cruelties were largely because the Germans were a beer drinking nation.

It was the Milwaukee view that made the American Indian so savage and ferocious," said Johnson in a sarcastic tone. Johnson then offered an amendment to the bill providing for 2.75 percent beer; another amendment that will give municipalities the power to license drink parlors at a fee of not less than $25 or more than $100, and the further power to the municipalities to limit the number of drink parlors in one city. It would remove the 10-gallon home limit, saying that many who had voted dry had more than that limit in their cellars and would suspend the present excise regulation until the supreme court had passed on the constitutionality of the amendment. If the amendment is declared void, he said, the regulatory laws should immediately become operative again.

Assemblyman Frank B. Metcalfe, spoke for 2.75 percent beer, followed by a number of workmen.

The state affairs committee bill to create the office of prohibition commissioner to enforce the dry regime in Wisconsin as the result of the passage of the federal constitutional amendment was recommended for death Thursday night by the committee. The vote was six to five.

Voting to kill the bill, were Connor, Downey, Weeks, Wileman, McClone and Knappa. The five who voted for the bill were Axel Johnson, Grindell, Carter, Webster and Anderson.

WHO'S WHO in the Day's News

BY WILLIAM HALE THOMPSON.

William Hale Thompson, who has been mayor of Chicago during the past four years, was renominated by the Republicans at the recent primaries, and later re-elected mayor.

His Democratic opponent was a son of Robt. M. Szwietz.

Thompson was born in Boston, Mass., May 14, 1869, and removed with his parents to Chicago in his infancy. He has been active in politics since 1900, when he was elected to the Chicago City Council. Later he served on the county board for four years and was chosen mayor by an immense majority.

Thompson was bitterly criticized by his political enemies for his alleged pro-Germanism. He opposed war against Germany. In his recent campaign for nomination and election the only papers in Chicago that supported him were the German-language papers.

Thompson has large real estate holdings left him by his father. He was married in 1901 and is childless.

INCOME TAX SECRECY CLAUSE AMENDED

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Madison, April 25.—Senator H. J. Severson, Iola, won a signal legislative victory for a new member Thursday night in the senate, when by a vote of 15 to 14 the body adopted the Severson amendment to the income tax secrecy clause had sent the bill to engrossment. Reconsideration was refused, which places the measure beyond the amendment stage.

The Severson amendment would allow inspection of income tax returns by any member of the legislature, or any city council or town, village, or county board, the attorney general of the state, when such inspection is in the public interest, and also limit the use of the returns as evidence in any case pending a trial of record.

Janes Look Unbeatable For Sunday

By George McManus.

FAST TEAM LINED UP TO PICK ON ROCKFORD

(By K. L. EAGON) The famous $500,000 infield the Athletics used to wield with collective cunning against American League teams a few years ago will have nothing on the Janes' lineup for Sunday against Rockford.

More than $200 will be spent Sunday in salaries for players, gate forces, equipment, etc. Only $75 is in the treasury now. The few tickets sold this week has not even paid the expense of putting out back cards, telephone and telegraph and work on the grounds.

Must Sell 100 Tickets

One hundred tickets will have to be sold before tomorrow night. There is no way out of that. Because the Janes must have $200 in hand before play is called Sunday. This is a call for salesmen to sell tickets for the games to be played here by the Janes and will be paid liberally for their services.

And now for an analysis of the team that will represent the Janes Sunday.

Nick Kearns will pitch. Kearns has had seven years experience in the big leagues. He has been reported to the Des Moines club of the Western League last night, but he telephoned Fred Isbel, manager of the Iowa club, that he intended to stay out of the big show this year and play independent, free lance ball. Kearns will probably be paid more for his services in the box Sunday than the entire gate receipts. This shows that everything is being done, everything out, to give Janes a winning ball club.

Eldred at Second

"Rube" Eldred will play second base. Eldred is an all-around player and the keystone sack couldn't be better taken care of. Incidentally, Eldred will receive a big league salary for his services Sunday. He refused to come to Janesville unless there was a remuneration offer and was much disatisfied with last Sunday's share. Eldred is an idealist, and he can hit.

"Tommy" Croake can catch. Those who saw last Sunday's game will not have to be enlightened as to the capabilities of Thomas. Croake is a skilled player.

Bond, of Lake Forest (Ill.) Academy, telephoned the writer last night that he would arrive in Janesville Saturday evening. Bond will play third base. He played that position for the Lake Forest Academy club for several seasons. Bond, also, is a money player. He comes highly recommended.

Indian Wild Play

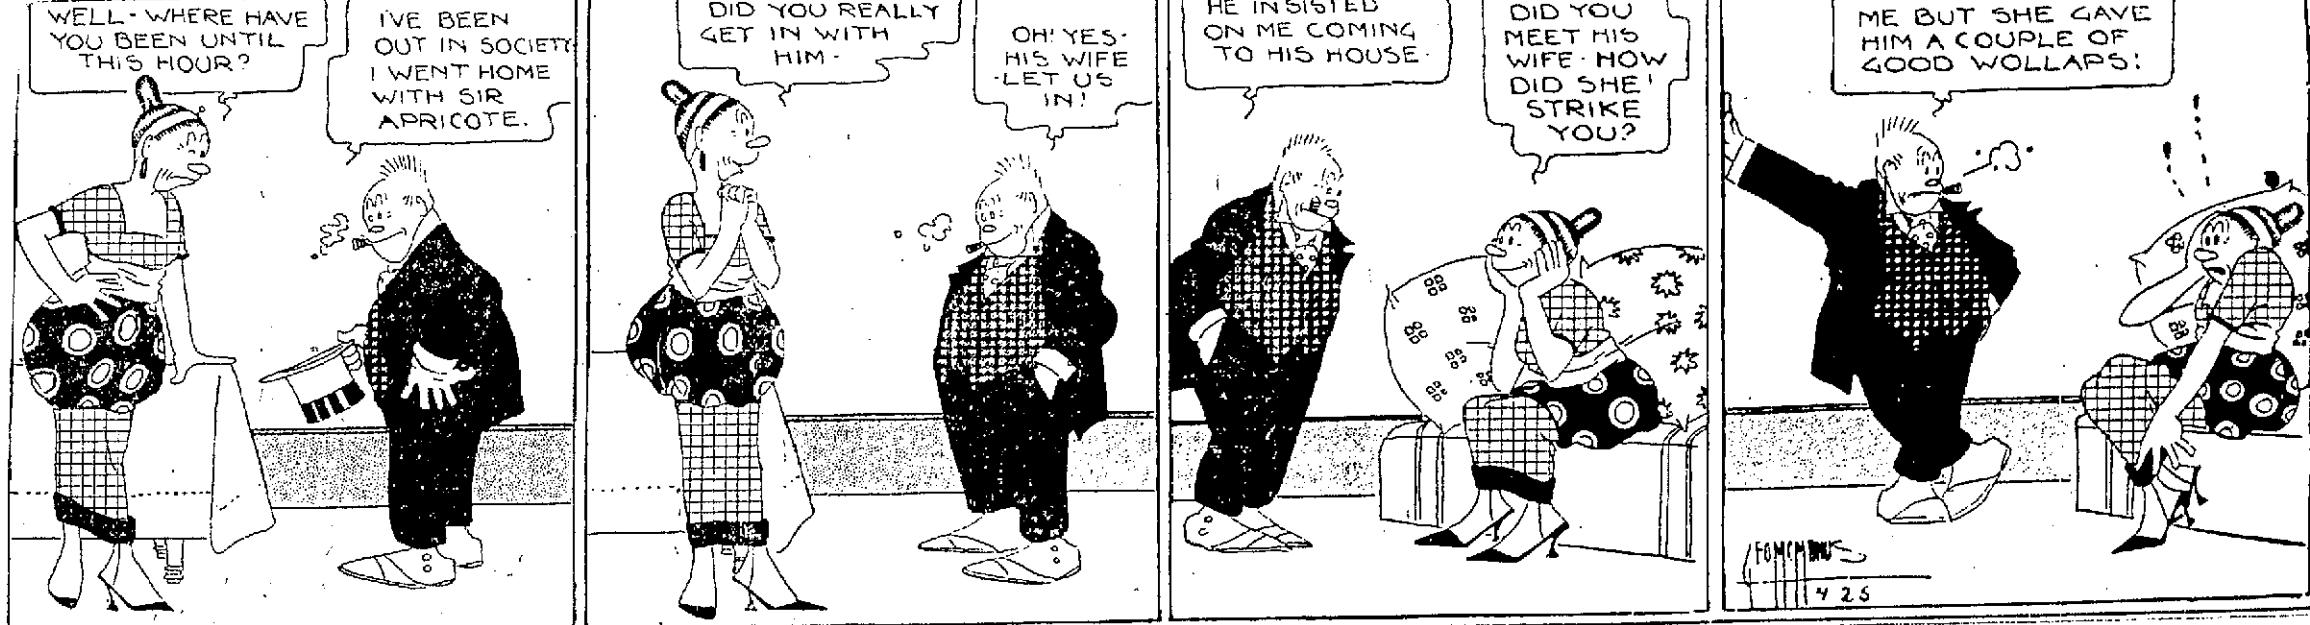

Ben Green, the Indian, will play the right outfield. Herb Kakuske will cover in center and Viney in left. Dopp will stick at first base, and has promised that he is capable of handling the inside work. Ted Eiler will again show on shortstop.

A letter came in today from "Babe" Adams, saying he had handed in his resignation and would be with the Janes before their next home game, May 1.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Moran Has No Wonder Players But Hurling Staff Will Give Club Punch

(By N. E. BROWN)

One thing that gives us faith in Pat Moran's ability to collect and maintain a regular winning ball club in Cincinnati is the fact that apparently he has convinced Cincinnati that they need not expect him to promise or produce a pennant winning club this season.

Pat is taking no promises. But he already has won the backing of the Clari fans—we refuse to call them Red fans any more—by the quiet way he has started work.

Moran has no world beating stars on his club this season. He is not building his system around one star.

Hod Eller led the Cinci fingers last hand or tempermental player, as many managers in Cincinville have done in the past.

His pitching staff indicates the kind of team he has.

Moran has seven pitchers primed to do the hurling—and each shoulder an equal share in it.

Four of the seven are vets—Slim Sallee, Ray Fisher, Mitchell and Irgen.

While Sallee is out of the groove temporarily with spinal trouble, he is expected to be back in a couple of weeks. He is much more satisfied now that he is near his home in Higginsonport, and looks for a good season.

Ray Fisher, Yankee castoff, insists that he isn't even slipping, let alone through. Regan and Mitchell are dependable hurlers, both in good condition.

Three of the pitchers are young stars.

Hod Eller led the Cinci fingers last season and caused much talk. He was bothered by lame shoulder early last season. Moran believes he has soiled the reason. Eller has and has taught Eller to fly, like the birds.

Orville Mathewson saw promises of a great southbound in Reuter last spring and coached him in earnest.

Orville is a comer.

Moran says frankly he is satisfied with his infield, outfield and catching staff. Which means that all three sections must be in good shape.

The success of Moran in his first season cannot be forecast, of course. But it really looks as though the fate of the Cinci crowd is hooked to change.

It looks like the Janes will be free from change as a snake from sides next Sunday. But we sure oughta winna game.

There's been more tight baseball right here in Janesville this season than there has yet in either of the two major leagues. Some of the scores Wednesday and yesterday looked like a football summary.

IT CAN'T BE PERFORMED. Masked Marvel. "I'll pass, anything." Demetral. "You go had, fix match." Theater. "Nothing doing here." Fans. "Watch next fall."

If half a dozen pretty girls will come down to The Gazette pronto and offer their services as ticket sellers, the Janes will be over the top. Ku-mongos!

Louisville, Ky., April 25.—Pete Hoppe, formerly with the Philadelphia Nationals, reported to the Louisville American Association club yesterday. There were great agent and association terms of both the Louis and little Rock clubs. For this reason he cannot play until his case is acted on by the national commission.

Hoppe Offers $10,000 Bet.

New York, April 25.—Willie Hoppe and Young Jake Schaefer will meet in a 1,000 point match at the half-mile of Schaefer against Hoppe's challenge. Hoppe will call for a side bet of $10,000 or $10,000. Tod Sloan, who represents Schaefer here, is today awaiting an answer to a wire sent by the player informing him that Charles Stoenham has agreed to back him. Schaefer is in California.

Golfer Sets Record.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 25.—Fred W. Knight, who played eight rounds of golf at the White Marsh Valley Country Club on Monday, April 14, in a 1,000 point match, has set a record of 18 holes in a row.
